Providing You with the Remote Hands Support You Require

In today's environment, organizations of all types are required to stretch their IT budgets as far as possible. Meanwhile, their IT staffs are required to address a growing range of day-to-day maintenance requests, while balancing such requests with longer-term strategic initiatives and projects. With Gold Support service, we can help you restore focus on strategic IT initiatives, by managing routine remote hands services, such as server reboots, telecommunications support, rack and stack, OS loads, and tape back-ups on your organization's behalf.
