The Conference Control Center Puts Your Account in Your Hands

The Conference Control Center (CCC) is a self-service online portal that allows moderators to customize their passcodes, change the features of their calls, as well as access recordings, participant reports, and conference history.

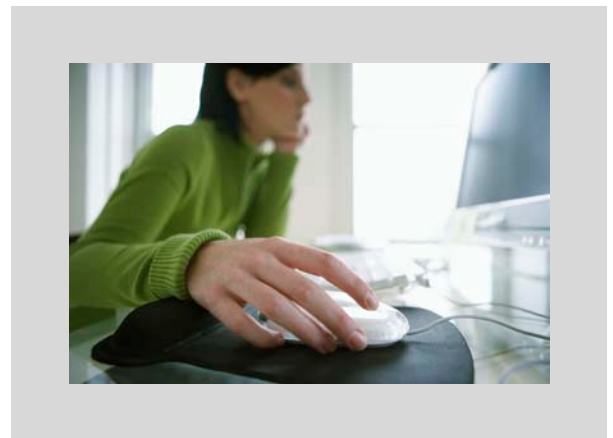

More importantly, the CCC also has Administrator access. The assigned conferencing Administrator(s) within your organization can create new moderators in real-time. The moderator receives account details about a minute after submission and the account is ready to use. You can also edit and cancel accounts in real time. The CCC is accessed through a URL that is unique to your company. This link is provided in each Reservationless Welcome Email.

Use the Conference Control Center to Increase Security

The CCC provides real-time access to your account. Your Administrator controls your moderator accounts and can delete accounts whenever necessary. There is no waiting. When an employee leaves the business your Administrator can delete or change the account so it is no longer accessible to the employee. Moderators can also change their passcodes or require an additional PIN in order to ensure only approved participants are able to join the meeting.

Customization

In a matter of seconds your Administrator can upload your logo to the CCC. Logos appear in the CCC and also within the CenturyLink Web Conferencing tool. There are also eleven color schemes available to align the look and feel of the CCC with your company colors.
