

CenturyLink International Toll Free Service

Extend your virtual enterprise's reach

As competition from both traditional and non-traditional sources increases, companies that conduct business internationally recognize the value of extending their virtual reach.

Even though the Internet is prolific, international customers still want to be able to talk with a real person when they call U.S.-based businesses. Being able to provide this experience for your customer differentiates you from the competition and helps increase your business' market penetration.

International Toll Free Service and Universal International Freephone Number are cost-effective ways to provide worldwide access to your U.S.-based business. With these services, customers and overseas employees can easily reach you.

How International Toll Free Service (ITFS) works

If your international toll-free calls originate from a single country, CenturyLink™ ITFS is for you. This service provides your customers and overseas employees with a single, toll-free number to use. Each country uses a unique number, and ITFS is currently available for many international locations.

How Universal International Freephone Number (UIFN) works

With UIFN you receive a single, international toll-free number for calls originating from multiple, participating countries. For example, while an ITFS number from Germany will not work in France, the same number as a UIFN will work in Germany, France and any other participating country.

Add international flexibility to your toll-free service

As a business already enjoying our Domestic Toll Free Service, you have an opportunity. Integrate ITFS or UIFN into your current service and create a flexible offering for your virtual enterprise—all for a very competitive rate.

Position your international business for growth

With CenturyLink as your single source for communication solutions, your international business is positioned for successful growth. Deploying ITFS or UIFN as standalone products, or integrated with an online service, allows you to adjust your communication needs as your business grows.

Contact your CenturyLink Representative today!

