Clearly reliable

A great deal of mission-critical business communications are still transacted over the phone, even in today's hyper-connected, digital environment. You can trust reliable, high-quality Outbound Long Distance to keep you in close, personal touch with customers and suppliers across the U.S.

Outbound Long Distance connects over the robust CenturyLink multi-protocol label switching (MPLS), OC-192 fiber optic SONET network to all major serving areas in the country as part of a complete suite of communications tools available to complex large business customers. The national CenturyLink inter-exchange (IXC) network infrastructure combines the use of a traditional circuit switched platform with a next-generation voice services platform, so you know your service is supported by the latest technology.
